

User Research Rewards

Terms and Conditions

User Research Rewards is a rewards program that individuals may join and participate to share feedback on the user experience of Radix ® owned products in the Radix ® environment as well as general experience and comparison with other products and services.

All events, and opportunities to participate will be shared in community channels and through newsletters.

The User Research Rewards is organised and promoted by RDX Works Limited.

For any questions on the trusted third parties we work with to provide this program or support relating to the program, events rewards or other matters, email at hello@radixdlt.com
